Profile:

Dr. Bani is a highly accomplished public health physician with over two decades of extensive experience in International Public Health. His impressive career encompasses various academic appointments and significant contributions to the field.

Dr. Bani's teaching journey includes serving as an Assistant and Associate Professor in Community Health at King Saud University, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia (KSA), and as a lecturer at Jazeera Medical School, Sudan. Jazeera Medical School is internationally renowned for its innovative community-based training, where Dr. Bani played a pivotal role in shaping future healthcare professionals.

Dr. Bani was a founding faculty member at several leading medical institutions, including the Faculty of Medicine at Gazira University, Sudan; Jizan Medical College, Qunfudah Medical College in KSA; and Ajman Medical College, UAE. Through these foundational roles, he has contributed significantly to establishing and growing high-quality medical education programs across diverse regions, demonstrating his vision and leadership as a resourceful medical educator.

During his tenure at various academic institutions, Dr. Bani actively participated in numerous national training programs sponsored by prestigious organizations such as the WHO, USAID, and the national governments of Saudi Arabia, Sudan, and Iraq. Furthermore, he has shared his expertise as part-time faculty at the International Health Department at George Washington University, adjunct Associate Professor in the Family Medicine Department at the University of Illinois, Chicago (UIC), and visiting lecturer in Community Health at the American University of Beirut.

Dr. Bani was an Associate Professor at the College of Medicine, Ajman University, UAE. He currently serves as an Associate Professor (Adjunct) at the Department of Chronic Disease Epidemiology, Yale School of Public Health, USA, and as an Adjunct Associate Professor at the Global Health Department, Rollins School of Public Health, Emory University, Atlanta, GA, USA.

From 2018 to 2020, he served as the Associate Professor and Chairperson of Community Medicine and Health Care at the Faculty of Medicine in Al-Qunfudah, Umm Al-Qura University (KSA). Additionally, he was Associate Dean for Research and Graduate Studies at the Faculty of Medicine, Jazan University, KSA. His dedication to academic development and accreditation also extended to his advisory role for the VP of King Saud bin Abdelaziz University for Health Sciences, KSA. He is currently a member of the Board of Trustees for Sub-Saharan College and EDaen University, Sudan.

Dr. Bani is a distinguished member of the Editorial Boards of several prominent journals, including Tropical Medicine Reports Journal, Sudan Journal of Surgical Sciences and Research, and Sudan Journal of Public Health. He has also been a reviewer for the Saudi Medical Journal, Saudi Journal of Family and Community Medicine, and the Journal of Harm Reduction. Dr. Bani's scholarly contributions have resulted in the publication of over 60 papers in peer-reviewed journals.

His international experience is equally impressive, encompassing collaborations with renowned organizations such as Nutrition International, the World Bank, WHO, UNICEF, USAID, WFP, and the UN Humanitarian Mission in Iraq. Dr. Bani has worked with WHO as a consultant, evaluating regional management training programs in the Middle East and North Africa Region, and has been an active member of a WHO consultative group focused on developing Public Health Leadership and Networking.

Furthermore, Dr. Bani has played a significant role in addressing public health challenges, particularly in the context of humanitarian crises in the region. His involvement with the Yale School of Public Health programs in Sudan, Chad, and Jordan reflects his commitment to tackling global health issues effectively.

In his most recent role, Dr. Bani was a technical adviser and co-supervisor of two Sudanese PhD students in the Migrant Health Project for the North Africa and Middle East (MENA) region. This collaborative effort with the University of Barcelona, Spain, exemplifies his dedication to advancing global public health and transcending geographical boundaries.

Dr. Bani's extensive experience, unwavering commitment, and profound contributions make him a valuable asset to any institution or initiative that promotes public health and global well-being
